PRADO DAM WINS ARMY APPROVAL

5000 Children Attend Journal-KVOE Frolic

HUNDREDS OF PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Municipal Bowl Thronged
With Youngsters for Annual Event

Five thousand laughing happy youngsters trooped homeward this morning, clutching Easter eggs, tickets entitling them to other valuable prizes, their faces gummy with candy and smeared with ice cream.

They swept over the turf of the Municipal bowl like a horde of invading locusts at The Journal-KVOE second annual Easter egg hunt this morning. Everybody had a swell time.

Pull Out Eggs
Thousands of candy Easter eggs disappeared before the owners got home, however. Luncheon appetites were a bit dulled, but the children were happy.

Shoes, hats and sweaters were lost in the rush, and found again. Youngsters burrowed under tufts

JOURNAL THANKS EGG HUNT AIDES
The Journal's thanks for their part in the biggest and best Easter egg hunt yet go to: Radio station KVOE, Safeway Stores, Excelsior Creamery, Famous Department store, Stein's Stationery store, Asher Jewelry company, Brooks Clothing company, Majestic Malted Milk shop, and the Schi Bottling works for prizes and assistance; Santa Ana police department, WPA recreation project leaders, Councilman Ernest Layton and other councilmen for their part in conducting the festivities.

of grass and pulled out eggs, prize certificates and ice cream tickets, and galloped along for some more. Several thousands more kids took part in today's hunt than in the first one last year, and parents and children alike looked forward tonight to next year's event.

Geel! Swell!
Merchants, police and recreational project workers cooperated in making the event a success—and officers had their hands full herding the thousands of chuckling youngsters back so that all might have an even chance.

When it was all over a four-year-old red-headed boy summed it up. His face plastered with milk chocolate from an ice cream bar of which he had eaten the greater part, he beamed at the lanky youth alongside, chewing on a bright pink bit of Easter egg.

"Geel. Thwell!"

FREIGHTER IS IN DISTRESS

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The American freighter Volunteer, pumps failing and water gaining in her hold, flashed an SOS early today which started the British carrier Fresno City, 240 miles away, steaming to her assistance at 12 knots.

The Volunteer reported she was 840 miles from Yokohama, Japan. Word of the Volunteer's plight was received by Globe Wireless here in a relayed message from the liner President Harrison. The freighter, carrying a crew of about 40, said water "out of control" in number one hold and pumps not functioning properly.

'Pal' Hangs on Until Death

CHICAGO. (AP)—"Pal," a three-year-old police dog, was everything its name and breed implied. Hearing the muffled cries of its mistress, Mrs. Minnie Rubenstein, 60, as three robbers started to bind her wrists last night, "Pal" seized one of the thugs with its teeth. Another robber fired two shots but "Pal" clung to the man. Three more shots rang out, and the faithful dog loosened his grip and fell dead. The robbers fled.

Good Old Easter Bunny!

Beverly June Armfield, 3 years of age, and her big brother, Billy, 6, found a nest of eggs left by the Easter Bunny out at the municipal bowl this morning. They live at 1103 North Ross.

WHAT PRICE RADIO FIGHT BEACH OIL? GROWS HOT

Westover Analyzes H. B. Drilling Bills and Raises Question

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Senator Harry C. Westover of Orange county, in which is located the state's tideland oil pool at Huntington Beach, said today he is wondering if it is worth to the state $4000 a front foot to protect the beach adjacent to the state pool from tideland drilling.

The senator said two of the five miles of Huntington Beach now is practically worthless for recreation. (See OIL BILLS, Page 2)

F. D. R. RETURNS TO CAPITAL

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to the capital from Warm Springs, Ga., at 11 a. m. today and went directly to the White House.

Mrs. Roosevelt was at the station to greet him. Also there were the Vice President and Mrs. Garner, Secretary Hull and Attorney General Cummings.

In another month he will return to the southwest for a 10-day or two-weeks trip that will include about seven days of tarpon fishing in the Gulf of Mexico.

Nazis Strike at Freedom of Press

BERLIN. (AP)—A campaign to abolish European newspaper freedom as a check to "the international press terror" was launched today by Germany's controlled press, without mentioning the La Guardia incident, under the direction of Wilhelm Weiss, president of the National Journalists' association.

In a special edition of the newspaper "Der Tag" which published contributions from 20 European editors, Weiss declared "the real revolutionaries of European press freedom no longer adhere to the principle of freedom of the press. This freedom is, in reality, defended only by reactionaries of a past epoch."

MANY GROUPS WILL STAGE SERVICES

Programs for Events on Sunday Announced by County Churches

Joy to the world! The Christ is risen!

A million church bells in all four corners of the world will peal forth this message tomorrow as the dawn breaks on Easter Sunday.

Sunrise services symbolizing the awakening of a new spirit and faith in religion will be held throughout Orange county, on mountain peaks, and in quiet churches. Throughout the day, the glory of the resurrection will be commemorated with praise in word and song.

The dawn services at approximately 5:30 a. m. will include one sponsored by the First Presbyterian church of Santa Ana on Marcy Heights, one at the Four Square church, at 4:30 a. m.; a church service at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church at 6:30 a. m. and one by the South Santa Ana Church of Christ at Jack Fisher park; a joint service for Wintersburg, Westminster, Midway City and Garden Grove churches at the First Methodist church of Garden Grove at 5:15 a. m.; united Fullerton churches at Hillcrest park at 5:15 a. m.; and community services for Placentia residents on Tuffree hill, for Yorba Linda at Trielie hill around the celebrated white cross there, and for Orange on a knoll on Orange Heights, Melrose Abbey will have a service at 5:53 a. m.

Easter Day in Santa Ana will have for its highlights not only special sermons in every church, but many splendid cantatas and other musical programs. A vesper service at 5:30 p. m. at the First Methodist church will include the presentation of Beethoven's Hallelujah chorus from the "Mount of Olives," by the church (See EASTER, Page 2)

Chairman Willard Smith and his board of supervisors will find themselves "on the spot" Tuesday. They will be waited on by a Santa Ana city delegation, which will ask, in effect, the following questions:

1. What motivated Smith's letter to Washington, protesting the granting of a police radio station permit to Santa Ana? Was it Smith's idea alone?

2. Did Smith have the authority to act as chairman of the board of supervisors without consulting other members in an open meeting or having the board itself take action?

Howard In Lead
3. Is Smith hampering the actions of law enforcement by opposing the Santa Ana police permit?

4. Was Smith in possession of all the facts when he protested? The city's delegation, headed by Police Chief Floyd Howard, will ask that the board withdraw the protest made by its chairman.

Supervisor Smith was revealed yesterday as the person who blocked issuance of a permit by his letter to the federal communications commission, which indicated that a hearing would be necessary in Washington before action was taken.

Differs With Smith
Howard today said that Smith's protest had several discrepancies in it.

"So far as his allegation that KGHX, the county station, can render the best of service," he said, "let me point out that our system would be a two-way means of communication. KGHX is only one way."

"His theory that the station would interfere with KGHX is incorrect, because under the licenses of both stations neither is permitted to interfere with the other. We would not use any more time on our own station than we now would on the county station, so how would it interfere?"

Two Bingham's Are Divorced

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Judge Worth W. Trammell granted Mrs. Alfred M. Bingham a divorce from former Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut today. Mrs. Bingham charged the former senator with emotional cruelty.

OTHER DIVORCE IS GRANTED IN RENO
RENO, Nev. (AP)—Charging mental cruelty, Mrs. Grace M. Bingham won a private trial divorce here today from Harry B. Payne Bingham, New York multi-millionaire.

"I have never contacted anyone in regard to this project," Curran said, "and have made no arrangements to appear before the chamber of commerce Monday."

Union Seeks Injunction To Force Chrysler Pact

BASE REQUEST ON WAGNER LABOR ACT

Secy. Perkins Asserts
Sit-Down Strike Idea
Now on the Wane

DETROIT. (AP)—The United Automobile Workers asked Circuit Judge Allan Campbell today to issue a mandatory injunction requiring the Chrysler corporation to deal with the union as sole bargaining agency for its employees.

The court was asked to restrain the corporation from violating the Wagner labor relations act, from discriminating against employees for union activities and from hiring labor spies.

The Wagner act, a federal law, provides that a union which demonstrates that it has a majority membership in any plant shall be recognized as the exclusive agency for collective bargaining.

4-MONTHS BABY LIVES 18 HRS.

NEW YORK. (AP)—The accumulated wisdom of man, written at bedside over a period of centuries, held that an infant born after four months' gestation could not live. A Brooklyn hospital today had both proof and contradiction of medicine's proverb.

A baby weighing a scant eight ounces, which came into the world a little more than four months after conception, did live, but only for 18 hours. Outwardly, Mr. and Mrs. Saverio Vita's boy, a first-born, was normal.

His head was no bigger than a small apple. But his heart beat was strong. At first he was given only sterile water; after a few hours milk of sugar was added, two drops every 10 minutes until his death last night.

New York Paper Banned in Italy

ROME. (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune was banned from Italy today for an indefinite period.

The order said recent articles from the newspaper's Rome correspondent were "false and stupid."

Howard Curran Denies He'll Promote Union Depot Scheme

A number of Santa Ana business men today were seeking the source of rumors published in a local daily to the effect that a movement is under way to promote a union depot here.

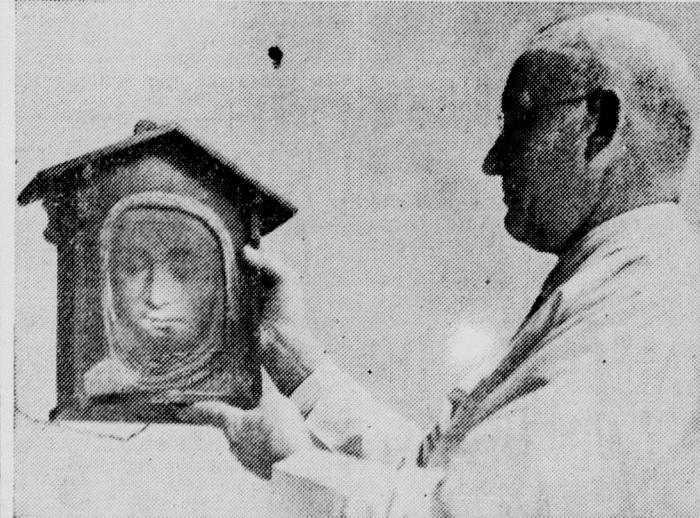

Railway authorities here branded the published rumors as ridiculous and unauthorized.

Howard Curran of the Frank Curran Lumber company on East Fourth street was quoted in a report yesterday afternoon as saying he would promote the idea before the chamber of commerce. Today Curran denied having made such an announcement and said he had no plans for such a move.

Curran denied that he is representing or "speaking on behalf of" East Fourth street property owners and businessmen. He also denied that he has contacted the chamber of commerce in regard to broaching a union depot project for Santa Ana.

"I have never contacted anyone in regard to this project," Curran said, "and have made no arrangements to appear before the chamber of commerce Monday."

Cathedral Relic Cherished

Far from the St. Mihiel cathedral in France where Dr. R. P. Yeagle found it, the exquisite work of art embodied in the stained glass likeness of the Madonna is shown above. Dr. Yeagle brought the piece of stained glass to Santa Ana after he found it in the demolished cathedral.

Madonna Is Saved From War Grave

By KENNETH ADAMS

September, 1918 . . . The sullen roar of mighty guns thundered back from the rolling hills of France upon the shattered village of St. Mihiel. An American medical officer, one of the thousands of Yankee soldiers who helped drive the Imperial German army back toward the Fatherland, stood among the ruins of the once glorious Cathedral of St. Mihiel.

While the cathedral was held by the Germans for four years, a torrent of shells from Allied and Hun guns had poured incessantly into it until every bit of the centuries-old stained glass in the ancient monument to religion lay shattered in the dust. A few crumbling walls. Unexploded shells. Mud and debris. All that was left of the great work of art.

The medical officer poked his foot in the debris, and up from the muck a face of breath-taking beauty appeared. The face, so life-like it seemed to glow with a life of its own, was the likeness of the Madonna, burned with warm colors into the cold glass.

Reverently, Dr. R. P. Yeagle picked up the bit of glass, little more than foot square, and held it in his hands. It was the only piece of stained glass in the great cathedral that had escaped damage.

For months Dr. Yeagle carried the face of the Madonna with him all over France. Today its brooding loveliness shines out from a shrine in his office at 215 South Main street. Undimmed by the passage of centuries, unhurt by the crashing crescendo of shells which splintered every other piece of glass in the cathedral, the face of the Madonna reposes serenely now in its shrine, thousands of miles from the country where artists whose work has never been duplicated erected their monuments.

No modern artists know how the ancient masters burned the living colors into the stained glass, nor can they duplicate the work. The cathedral of the Madonna who came to Santa Ana was built in 1412. And the deep, rich colors have never faded. Each hair in the soft eyelashes and sweeping eyebrows can be seen. A benign smile curves soft lips, and drooping eyelids half-cover the brooding eyes of the Madonna.

Tonorrow is Easter. And perhaps the slumberous eyes of the Madonna look back through the centuries to the time when the glorious news of the resurrection burst upon a dark and unbelieving world.

Encyclical Pleads for Intensification of 'Christian Life'

VATICAN CITY. (AP)—Pope Pius XI carried his fight for a return to the "Christian Life" to the western hemisphere today in an Easter encyclical letter addressed to the clergy and laity of Mexico.

Non-controversial in tone, the third to issue from the Pontiff's pen within nine days, the encyclical urged material as well as spiritual aid for the Mexican worker and pleaded for "great care" to safeguard school children and university students "from dangers to their faith."

He counseled against "violent changes" in the application of principles of justice and charity, although his words reflected his sadness at "the condition of the afflicted church in Mexico."

(The closing of churches and the restrictions on numbers of priests permitted to conduct services, coupled with Mexico's more recent program of socialistic education, have been objects of deep concern to Catholics. Recently, Catholics in some portions of Mexico opened long-closed churches by force.)

FINAL ACTION WILL AWAIT SURVEY

Major Wyman to Give
Board Details About
Local Project

Orange county's $15,000,000 flood control project passed its first major hurdle today.

The war department at Washington, D. C., announced today tentative approval of plans for the Prado reservoir, major unit of the huge flood control program. An official spokesman said final approval by the board of army engineers would not be forthcoming until after more detailed information from investigations at the reservoir site.

Wyman on Job
This detailed information is expected to be provided by Major Theo. Wyman, jr., Southern California divisional army engineer, and Col. John J. Kingman, Southern Pacific divisional engineer, both of whom are on their way to Washington to lay details of the Orange county project before the army board of engineers, as reported exclusively in The Journal yesterday.

Dispatches from Washington received by The Journal today said the Orange county project was one of several authorized for construction in the 1936 omnibus control act on the condition that no work be undertaken until completion of further and detailed investigation by the war department.

Sustained By Board
The district engineer at Los Angeles recently recommended approval of the project plans, but the division engineer advocated a more comprehensive study of the dam site and was sustained by the board, the Washington report said.

The news from Washington showed progress in plans to launch construction work on the project, on which the government plans to spend $13,000,000. Orange county will be expected to provide about $2,000,000 for purchase of rights of way.

GRAFT PROBE IS WIDENED
SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Repercussions of San Francisco's police graft inquiry, which has led to the resignation of a police commissioner and an order for the district attorney to appear before the grand jury he is directing, extended into the mayor's office today.

The San Francisco Examiner said Maurice Raphael, executive secretary of Mayor Angelo Rossi, admitted he had frequently borrowed small sums from Peter J. McDonough, bail bond broker whose concern was described by an investigator as a "fountainhead of corruption."

District Attorney Matthew Brady, technical head of the current vice investigation, was ordered to explain to the grand jury today charges the broker holds a note of his. Police Commissioner Thomas Shumate resigned when it was revealed he owed McDonough $20,000.

ITALY PLEDGES NO SPAIN AID

ROME. (AP)—Informed Italian sources said today Count Dino Grandi, Rome's ambassador to London, had assured Great Britain that Italy does not intend to send more volunteers to the Spanish civil war.

The authoritative statement was qualified in government circles to embrace this statement: "Unless other nations start to send volunteers again."

Report Sale of 55-Acre Grove
A 55-acre citrus grove in Anaheim had changed hands today. The deal was reported to have involved about $120,000, and was handled by the Santa Ana Realty company.

Otto Schroeder was the former owner of the property. The name of the purchaser was not announced, but it was known that it is a man who has purchased considerable citrus property in the county recently, and also owns property in the Whittier district.

One Day in Seven

One day in seven the civilized world pauses to pay its respects to religion and the deep underlying principles and ideals which point the way to better things for humanity. Regardless of denomination, creed, race, color or nation—voices of worship rise in unison on one day in seven. You'll find complete church news in The Journal every Saturday. See page 9.

LOCAL STORE ENTERED BY BURGLARS

Two Homes, Pawnshop Also Report Losses Friday Night

Burglary of two homes, a store and a pawn shop, with loss of more than $200 in goods and money was being investigated by Santa Ana police today.

Smashing a large plate glass window and showcase cover with an awning handle, burglars last night ransacked a show window of a pawn shop on Fourth and Bush streets and escaped with $146 worth of loot.

Officer Charles Neer discovered the crime early this morning as he passed the shop and saw the window broken. Other officers said the theft probably occurred between 9:20 p. m. and 1:30 a. m.

Blood Found
The shop, owned by C. M. Marks, listed $146.15 worth of property missing from the window, including sporting goods, rings, watches, watch chains, field glasses, pens, pencils, neckties, and a variety of small items.

The awning handle used to smash the plate glass was found nearby, and blood on it indicated the burglar had cut his hand while breaking the glass.

W. F. Pilgrim, grocery store proprietor of 303 West Highland street, told officers this morning that someone had used a pass key to enter his store last night and escaped with $5 worth of cigars and $1 in pennies, leaving via the front door.

Door Unlocked
Two house burglaries Thursday night were added to the list, at Owens G. Owens and H. M. Simmonds reported losses.

At the Owens home, 437 South Birch street, the burglar entered through an unlocked front door, entered Owens' room, stole a $70 watch and $2 from Owens' wallet while the owner lay there asleep. He then took $3 from Owens' mother's purse in her room.

At the Simmonds residence, 606 South Ross street, the intruder stole Simmonds' trousers, valued at $2.50, and a $50 watch, which he dropped on the front porch.

Careful Thieves Sought at Orange

Careful thieves, who pried off a screen at 614 North Glassell street, Orange, to burglarize an office, and who took the screen with them, probably to conceal fingerprints, were being sought by Orange police today.

The office of Charles Goode was entered some time between 7 and 9 o'clock last night, it was reported, and a cash box containing bank books stolen. Chief George Franzen and Officer G. W. Coltraine investigated.

day, as Chrysler motor peace negotiations neared a climax.

The cabinet member, after a meeting with President Roosevelt, said she had hoped the Chrysler controversy was "within a few hours" of solution.

At Detroit, the conference called by Gov. Frank Murphy between the Committee for Industrial Organization leaders and Chrysler chiefs was holding what circumstances indicated might be the concluding session.

First Caller
Secretary Perkins was the first of a series of official callers by President Roosevelt for discussion of the troublesome epidemic of strikes.

Gov. Frank Murphy's announcement that "not a great deal" separated opposing forces brightened the Detroit workers' prospects of getting back to work. They left almost three weeks ago.

In addition to 60,000 Chrysler workers, 20,000 Briggs Body plant employees dependent on Chrysler orders were affected by the dispute over the United Automobile Workers union demand for exclusive bargaining rights.

Others Visit F. D. R.
Congressional leaders who have been listening to arguments by representatives and senators discussing sit-down strikes during the week were announced to visit White House conferences upon the President's arrival from Warm Springs, Ga.

Secretary Perkins said an inquiry indicated sit-down strikes "do not reflect any widespread movement to defy the law."

"I don't see any more sit-down strikes in the offing at the moment," she said when asked if there was prospect of one in the Ford plants. "At least we will have a chance to catch our breath and think."

choir and the Cecilia Singers. The United Presbyterian church will present a cantata, "The First Easter," at 7 p. m., and the Christian Alliance and Missionary Alliance church will present at 7:30 p. m. as its Easter cantata, "The Prince of Life," by the choir. The United Brethren church cantata will be "Hillside and Garden," at 7 p. m. and the 11 a. m. services at the First Evangelical church will feature not a cantata, as in previous years, but a selection of outstanding musical compositions at organ piano and mixed trio.

The First Congregational church has announced a special service at 7 a. m. as its most beautiful and impressive service of the year, and Easter music of all types will be heard at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church Sunday evening and morning.

Crucifixion
Special music and readings will feature the 7 p. m. services at the First Baptist church, and at the First Christian church at 7 p. m. will be heard the Sir John Stainer cantata, "The Crucifixion," sung by the combined First Christian and First Presbyterian choirs, which was first presented last night at the latter church.

A children's floral cross service at 7 p. m. at the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, additional masses at both St. Anne's and St. Joseph's Catholic churches, and special music at regular services of St. Peter's and Trinity Lutheran churches concludes the list of Easter features.

Two outstanding musical organizations will be heard tomorrow in the chapel of Melrose Abbey. At the Sunrise service, to start at 5:30 a. m., the vested choir of the Trinity Episcopal church of Orange will tell the Easter story in song. Margaret Bauer, organist, will assist with the program.

At 3 p. m. the vested choir of the Calvary Baptist church, Anaheim, will present the Easter cantata, "Victory."

David Craighead, Santa Ana boy organist, will assist the choir.

AMELIA'S SHIP TWIN HERE

A sister ship to the one flown by Amelia Earhart when she started on her recent world-cruise landed at the Martin Airport yesterday afternoon.

The new twin-tail Lockheed, bi-motored, was built at the same time that Amelia Earhart's plane was made. It was piloted by Bill Hottel, well-known former Santa Ana pilot, who now flies for P. K. Haliburton, millionaire oil and gold king who has headquarters in Oklahoma.

Hottel stayed at the local airport for some time yesterday afternoon, taking Dale Decker, aviation chairman of the chamber of commerce back to Glendale with him in the plane. Hottel now is flying the $60,000 airship between the United States and Honduras for Haliburton, who owns the ship.

YOUTHS ADMIT WRECK PLOT

DE KALB, Ill. (AP)—Details of an alleged plot to wreck streamline trains of the Northwestern Railroad near here were revealed by county officials today. Railroad men said the plot was unsuccessful.

Held on charges of malicious mischief in connection with the case were two 16-year-old boys, Allen Chatman and Charles Evans Parks, both of De Kalb. State's Attorney Latham Castle said they admitted they cut black signal wires in alleged attempts to wreck the streamliners City of Los Angeles and City of Denver.

Nation to Pray For Victims of School Blast

KILGORE, Tex. (AP)—The nation will be called to pray Sunday for victims of the explosion at the New London school last week, according to the Rev. Cecil H. Lang. The services are planned from 3 to 3:30 p. m. at the site of the school explosion.

Scribber to Head County Beekeepers

Discussion of problems of major importance to the honey industry, and election of officers featured the annual meeting of the Orange County Farm bureau beekeepers department yesterday afternoon.

Leonard Scribber, Orange, was elected president of the department to succeed H. J. Crawford. Roy Bell, Orange, was named secretary, and P. L. Crump representative on the farm bureau directorate.

Two Perish, Two Burned in Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. (AP)—A man and child perished and two others were severely burned today as fire destroyed a farm house five miles from here. The dead were Allen Richardson, 2, and Warren Gage, 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Richardson and their two other sons, Walter, 1-year-old, and Glen, 4, escaped by leaping from a second story window.

NEW COLLEGE PLAN MAKES PROGRESS

Plans for gathering statistical data on the newly proposed junior college for Santa Ana gained momentum today.

President R. B. Newcomb of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, leading organization in the movement, announced election of four members of a citizens committee to work in conjunction with the fact finding committee named by the board of education to provide an adequate junior college plant for the city.

Members of the citizens' committee are A. N. Zerman, Alex Brownridge, Plummer Bruns and George Dunton. The committee named by the board of education, with which the citizens' group will work, is comprised of President George Wells of the board of education, Dr. Margaret Baker, board member; Dean D. K. Hammond, of the junior college, and Superintendent F. A. Henderson.

Wells announced today he will call a meeting of the joint committee in the near future to map plans for the work. He emphasized that the committee will take no action which could be detrimental to the water bond election, which is being called soon by the board of supervisors.

The flood control program, he said, is of paramount importance. The junior college plan is second in importance.

It was also announced by Wells that the committee is now considering slogans submitted to choose the best two slogans to be used in promotional work on the junior college. Sam Hurwitz has offered two prizes for the winning slogans.

UNIONS SPLIT OVER STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Two unions representing 8000 employees of Pacific lines of the Southern Pacific voted on strike proposals today in the face of warnings from two other powerful unions that if they would remain "on the job protecting contracts."

The strike vote was called by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. They charged the company refused to pay money awarded by the National Railroad Adjustment board and refused to recognize the union's rights to represent members in grievances.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors declared necessary steps would be taken to remain at jobs if a strike was called.

"We haven't anything to do with this strike vote," said W. R. King, district chairman of the engineers. Company officials declared the vote was the result of a jurisdictional dispute among the workers.

Sisters Seek to Free Girl, 12, From Husband, 57

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Older sisters, determined to free 12-year-old Martha Nell Revell from her 57-year-old husband, enlisted the aid of an attorney today, who said he had been instructed to bring annulment proceedings.

Meanwhile, Martha Nell stayed with her sisters. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel E. North, asked County Judge Sam H. Murphy for a warrant charging the older sisters with kidnapping, but he declined, saying the child told him she would not go back to her husband and parents, "even if I have to run away."

Mr. and Mrs. North gave their consent for the marriage and witnessed the ceremony last Saturday. Judge Murphy said the bride told him her father forced her into the union with Chandler L. Revell.

Warns Public on Tax Scheme Here

Secretary-manager Phil M. Brown of the Business Men's Association today warned Santa Ana merchants against the activities of two men who claim to represent the Tax Revision League.

Brown said that the men exhibit credentials which purport to have the signature of Secretary of State Jordan of California, but that they are not authorized to represent Jordan.

The men, Brown said, ask to have petitions signed for repeal of the retail sales tax, and substituting a tax on wholesalers and manufacturers.

Bandits Hold Up TWA Office

NEW YORK. (AP)—Two holdup men bound a clerk in the transcontinental and Western Air Line offices opposite Grand Central Terminal today and robbed the safe of $250 in cash and $746 in checks. The robbery was the third in the two offices in two years.

tional purposes because of the oil wells near it.

"The amended Swing-Rich and Olson oil bills which are now before the senate without recommendation from the oil industries committee," said Westover, "put the proposition directly up to the people whether they will allow tideland drilling at Huntington Beach."

"The Swing-Rich bill, as amended in committee, provides for drilling only from the uplands. The Olson measure provides for drilling only from the uplands. The Olson measure provides for drilling only from the uplands."

"In as much as the Standard Oil company controls the greater part of the uplands at the beach, and all oil wells drilled from the littoral lands into the state pool will have to pass through the Standard property, the Swing-Rich bill gives a great advantage to the Standard Oil company."

"In fact it is delivering into the hands of the Standard Oil company the state-owned oil pool at Huntington Beach."

"If the people of the state do not wish to give the state-owned oil pool to the Standard, they must pass a law to tide land drilling at the beach."

"Less than two miles of the beach are involved and already oil wells encroach the beach."

"It is estimated the state-owned oil pool contains as much as 450,000,000 barrels of oil. This estimate covers only the known oil sands."

Estimate May Be Low
"If deeper sands exist, as they do in other parts of the Huntington Beach field, then the estimated contents of the state pool is probably low."

"If instead of 450,000,000 barrels of oil being in the state-owned pool there is only one-half of that amount, that will mean an ultimate recovery of 225,000,000 barrels, worth approximately $225,000,000."

"A royalty of one-sixth which was in the original Swing-Rich bill will bring $40,000,000 to the state. The bill now calls for no percentage, putting that figure up to the highest bidder."

Differ On Royalty
"But Senator Swing has contended that 16 2/3 per cent is a reasonable royalty to be expected from upland drilling and Senator Olson estimates the state can obtain two-sixths royalty or more from tideland drillings."

"In other words, to prohibit tideland drilling at Huntington Beach will cost the state at least $40,000,000 or approximately $4,000,000 a front foot."

"The state now owns the beach which is practically worthless for recreational purposes. Is it worth to the state $4,000,000 a front foot to protect the beach adjacent to the state pool from tideland drilling?"

Scouts Hunt for Missing Leader

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP)—Approximately 1,300 Arizona Boy Scouts, trained by Indians for just such an emergency, conducted an organized search today for Robert W. Miller, missing 23-year-old Boy Scout executive, believed by officers to have been killed Wednesday, probably by a hitchhiker.

The national Boy Scout organization posted a reward of $500 for the youthful field worker. Miller was en route to Globe from Safford to keep an appointment when he was last seen alive Wednesday.

Pickets Protest Anti-Picket Law

SANTA MONICA. (AP)—A handful of pickets stationed themselves around the city hall today as a protest against the city's emergency ordinance against picketing. There were about 35 pickets and the same number of deputy sheriffs.

The Central Labor Council of Santa Monica said about 2,000 pickets would appear at the hall this morning at 9 o'clock, but as the morning wore on they were not in evidence.

Charles Dice, police chief, said he would make no arrests.

Bandits Hold Up TWA Office

NEW YORK. (AP)—Two holdup men bound a clerk in the transcontinental and Western Air Line offices opposite Grand Central Terminal today and robbed the safe of $250 in cash and $746 in checks. The robbery was the third in the two offices in two years.

CHARGE FRAUD
Arrested in Santa Paula on charges of defrauding an innkeeper, Chauncey D. Drake, 22, El Modena, a truck driver, was returned to Santa Ana last night and booked at the county jail.

RUMMAGE SALE TO BEGIN NEW CHURCH SOON

Santa Anas today were invited to take an active part in a big rummage sale to be staged by the Santa Ana Assistance league, probatory unit of the Assistance league of Southern California, next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It was announced by Mrs. C. Mortimer Plum, publicity chairman, that Col. S. H. Finley has donated the store space at 412 East Fourth street, and that the rummage sale will be held at that location April 1, 2 and 3.

Mrs. Plum pointed out that this rummage sale is the first attempt of the local league to raise money to help pay the expenses of a children's bed at the St. Joseph's hospital, a permanent project of the league.

Residents of the city were urged to donate men's, women's and children's clothing for the sale. Those who wish to donate clothing or other household goods may contact any of three members of the league, and a truck will call for the articles.

Members to be called are Mrs. Z. B. West, general chairman of the sale, at 132; Mrs. Richard Emison, chairman of collections and soliciting, 2210, and Mrs. Dixon, chairman of arrangements, 4271-J.

TRAFFIC CHIEF TO BE PICKED

Santa Ana's new traffic safety council will meet Monday noon in Daniger's cafe, but nobody knew today who the chairman of the commission will be.

The six members of the commission will meet with Police Commissioner Plummer L. Bruns, executive member, to organize by naming a chairman and secretary.

Bruns said today nothing has been done about selection of a chairman, and will not be until the session Monday. Other members, including Charles Swanner, A. A. Hardy, V. L. Motry, and F. A. Henderson, said the same thing.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland and Elmer Heidt could not be contacted.

DEMOLAY TO MEET
Huntington Beach Order of Demolay will hold a special meeting Monday night to install the newly elected officers of the chapter for the coming term. The public is invited.

Will Preach on 'Weeds or Wonders'

The Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, announced today that he would preach only at the Easter morning services at his church, at which time his topic will be "Weeds or Wonders."

The evening will be given over to presentation of the cantata "The First Easter." Participating in it will be Mrs. Mildred Wilson, soprano; Miss Barbara Warner and Mrs. Violet Hillyard, contraltos; Minor Warner, bass; James Lukens, baritone; and Orlo Householder, tenor.

The contract for the project was to be signed today, awarding the job to Jules Markel, whose bid was $54,066. New furnishings and an organ will bring the total cost to between $65,000 and $70,000.

While the church is under construction services will be held in the Broadway theater, according to Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor.

Yesterday the building committee authorized signing of the contract with Markel. This was to be done today following arrangements on the contractor's bond.

Evening School Convenes Monday

The evening school classes will convene on Monday for regular class work.

The following classes have been specially planned for new members at this time: gardening, on Monday evenings at the Lathrop Junior High school; gymnasium for women, on Monday and Wednesday evenings, at the high school gym; forge and welding, in the high school shop on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. These classes all meet from 7 to 9 p. m.

Many other courses, too numerous to list, are offered in many fields. For further information call 4868 or 4260.

It's a sure sign of spring when fans begin pouring over their baseball schedules, and it won't be long—just a week from today—before they'll be flocking to the Pacific Coast league parks. The National and American leagues open play two weeks later.

Here's the schedule:
Pacific Coast league (April 3-4)
—San Diego at Los Angeles, Portland at Oakland, Missions at San Francisco, Seattle at Sacramento. American league (April 19)—Philadelphia at Washington and (April 20)—Washington at New York, Cleveland at Detroit, Chicago at St. Louis, Boston at Philadelphia.

National league (April 19)—Philadelphia at Boston, two games, and (April 20)—New York at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at Chicago, St. Louis at Cincinnati.

How good is Fullerton's Lupe LeMon, the Mexican heavyweight who is appearing on Olympic fight cards as Pico Pico?

Comments Bob Ray, Los Angeles columnist:

"Colt Wirt (One Shot) Ross, who is inclined to burst into superlatives when writing those letters proclaiming the prowess of any particular fighter he happens to be managing, finally went too far. In a recent batch of letters he sent out, Ross described his current 'sensation,' one Pico Pico, a Mexican heavyweight who measures up to the common impression of what the missing link looked like, as 'ferocious as Dempsey, boxes like Corbett and hits like Fitzsimmons.'"

"Imagine Mr. Ross's surprise when he got a letter from a Virginia promoter stating, 'If it's true your heavyweight, Pico Pico, is as ferocious as Dempsey, boxes like Corbett and hits like Fitzsimmons, we can't use him. There's no opposition for him here.'"

Louis - Braddock Title Bout Still Cloaked in Mystery

By EARL HILLMAN
CHICAGO. (AP)—The current heavyweight title bout side-show entitled "Who's Fighting Who, Where and When" had all the earmarks of a combined mystery melodrama-comic opera today.

By all intents and purposes, the city should be laying down the red plush carpet for triumphal entries by Champion James J. Braddock and Challenger Joe Louis.

Instead, the champ was mysteriously missing, the challenger was off somewhere picking up side money on exhibitions, the champ's manager, Joe Gould, showed no readiness for packing his bags in New York and a lot of fans who expected to see a world's title bout June 22 at Comiskey park were wondering what it was all about.

Joe Foley, the promoter of a record for the elusive leather-pushing event, wore a worried but determined look.

"No, I don't know where Braddock is," he said, "but we are going right ahead. Things look better, in as much as Mayor Ed-

REDLAND-RED HILL MATCH POSTPONED

Mt Meadows Spotted 26 Holes; L. W. Bemis to Replace McDonald

Postponement of the Red Hill-Redlands match until April 4 will delay the crowning of a champion in Southern California association golf, group two, but Santa Ana County club's title chances will be at stake here tomorrow afternoon.

Weather permitting, Dr. Garland C. Ross will send Santa Ana's 14-man brigade against Mt. Meadows over the Newport boulevard course at 1 p. m.

The locals, who will spot the invaders 26 holes under handicap rules, must perform at their peak to run up sufficient points to offset the score which Red Hill, now leading by one-half point, is certain to card against Redlands next week.

The standings: Red Hill, 64½ points; Santa Ana, 64; Mt. Meadows, 48; Redlands, 33½. Only one change will be made in Santa Ana's playing order, with Lawrence Bemis replacing J. K. McDonald on the No. 6 team with young Elmer Curry. The rest of the lineup, No. 1—Dick Ewert, club champion, and Jack Robertson; No. 2—Ed Holmes and W. W. Foote; No. 3—A. W. Robinson and Ted Burkett; No. 4—Earl Wilson and Ben Manker; No. 5—Ray Chapman and H. S. Wright; No. 7—Warren Fletcher and L. H. Robinson.

PREP BASEBALL FINALS TODAY

POMONA. (AP)—Top ranking young baseball aggregations go into the final stages of the fifth annual Southern California invitational high school tournament today.

Semi-finals of the meet, which started Thursday, were carded for this morning, with the following opponents:
San Diego High vs. Woodrow Wilson
Escondido vs. Long Beach Poly.
The winners of the two games were scheduled to battle it out for the championship this afternoon.

In the consolation round, Santa Paula was pitted against San Bernardino, and Compton against Herbert Hoover of Glendale.

Dizzy's Cardinal Moundmate Rates Hubbell As Best Hurler

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Who is the greatest pitcher in major league baseball today? Southpaw Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants or right-handed Jerome Herman Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals?

Ask Jim Winford, the Meeker, Okla., lad, who pals around on the Cardinal mound staff with Dizzy during the baseball season and goes home to pass the winter with Carl.

Without hesitating, he'll say: "Hubbell."

"Then he'll explain: 'Look at the records. 'Say what you want to about won-and-lost averages. They don't tell the story. The earned-run averages do. Diz is a great pitcher, but he has a long way to go to catch up with Carl.'

Meeker To Take Holiday
That, you learn, is the somewhat prejudiced opinion of the 561 other inhabitants of the little Oklahoma town of Meeker. All 561 are looking forward to the day when Meeker's pitchers No. 1 and 2—Hubbell and Winford, respectively—start against each other.

That will be the biggest day for Meeker since the time in 1923 when Winford's tossing won the little world series for Columbus while Hubbell was beating the Washington Senators.

Young Winford's rise to the majors was even more complicated than Hubbell's. He did get off to a good start, though—twirling a one-hitter for Scottsdale in the Middle Atlantic league in his first pro game. That was in '29.

A Lot Of Travel
"After that," Winford continues, "I batted around from one farm club to another—St. Joseph and Shawnee in 1930, Springfield, Greensboro, Scottsdale and Columbus in 1931, Columbus and Rochester in 1932, back to the Cardinal camp, then Rochester and Columbus in 1933, St. Louis and Rochester in 1934, and Columbus in 1935."

What about Winford's salary? The Cards should have just about doubled it over last year.

"They did, just about. I'm satisfied."

"They called me into St. Louis late in 1935 and I stopped the Cub streak at 21 games, remember? Won 7-5, in 11 innings.

"They had to give me a better chance to deliver last season or do something with me. It's hard to break in as a pitcher with the Cards, because they have so many farms to pick from. I got off good, won 11 and lost 10, and never missed a turn."

Training camp dope

Sarasota, Fla. (AP)—Bob (Lefty) Grove, the Red Sox pitching ace who has been rounding into shape gradually without exertion, will make his first competitive appearance here today against the Newark Bears.

ST. PETERSBURGH. (AP)—The Boston Bees, who appear to have little use for bats, have lost eight out of their 10 Citrus league games. Manager Bill McKeenie will call upon Guy Bush and Lou Fette to divide today's pitching against the Yankees.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—After two weeks of exhibition games, nobody in the Cleveland Indian camp knows whether Roy Hughes, transplanted to third from second, can handle bunts and snap an under-throw to first base. He may get some chances here in a two-game week-end series with the New York Giants.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Manager Bill Terry provides the rainy day news at the New York Giants training camp: 1.—Bill Terry will retire as an active player April 19, day before the season opens; 2.—Dick Bartell is the Giants' leadoff batter for 1937, J. M. Moore dropping to the No. 3 slot.

ST. PETERSBURGH. (AP)—It's going to be quite a problem for Manager Joe McCarthy to weed out his New York Yankee outfielders when spring time comes around. He has six in camp. Joe DiMaggio, George Selkirk and Jake Powell are regulars, but Rookie Ernie Koy and holdovers Roy Johnson and Myril Hoag have been doing almost as well.

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—The Athletics finish their training program with games with a Mexican all-star nine today and tomorrow. Bill Cissell, second baseman, will accompany Connie Mack and Trainer Ebling to San Antonio.

LAKELAND. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers depended on their bats today to pound out a revenge victory over Brooklyn's Dodgers. Extra-base hits appeared the only antidote for Tiger pitching wildness.

ORLANDO.—The Cardinals, out to break a long list of grapefruit league defeats, picked the Washington Senators today as the intended victim. Manager Frank Frisch held long batting drills yesterday.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates met the Chicago Cubs here today in their third exhibition game. The pirates lost an 11-inning game to Los Angeles yesterday, 9-5.

ORLANDO. (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris, whose Washington Senators have been winning regularly in the grapefruit league, says the shaping-up of Catcher Shanty Hogan, pitcher Dick Lenahan and Right Fielder Freddie Sington could "make or break" the team.

Los Angeles, (AP)—Sidney B. Wood of New York announced today his comeback bid for a place on the United States Davis cup tennis team was ended.

A snow storm that covered his mining property in Death Valley, demanding personal attention that interrupted his training schedule, was given as the reason.

"I can't get back to form, so I'm through," the blond-haired New Yorker declared.

Wood came to Southern California last December, announcing intention of trying to regain his old play, but said his plans were broken up by the almost unprecedented snow that buried his mine.

"It took me away from tennis at a time when I might have been building up my game. As it is, I'm playing very badly."

Los Angeles, (AP)—The Michigan medley relay team, holding one new record and a lead in total points, renewed today its bid for retention of the National Intercollegiate championship.

The Wolverines piled up 34 points yesterday in six of the 11 events of the meet at the University of Minnesota. Ohio State was seven points behind and Yale, considered one of the big threats in pre-meet calculations, was 13 points back of the champion.

The Michigan medley relay team of Frederick Cody, Jack Kasley, and Edward Kilar set the only new record in the first day of competition when it traveled the 300-yard distance in 2:57.8, bettering its own mark of 2:58.2 set in the 1936 intercollegiate.

The Wolverines piled up 34 points yesterday in six of the 11 events of the meet at the University of Minnesota. Ohio State was seven points behind and Yale, considered one of the big threats in pre-meet calculations, was 13 points back of the champion.

The Michigan medley relay team of Frederick Cody, Jack Kasley, and Edward Kilar set the only new record in the first day of competition when it traveled the 300-yard distance in 2:57.8, bettering its own mark of 2:58.2 set in the 1936 intercollegiate.

MINNEAPOLIS. (AP)—The University of Michigan swimming team, holding one new record and a lead in total points, renewed today its bid for retention of the National Intercollegiate championship.

TRANSFER LEAVES COUNTY WITH SINGLE CONSERVATION CAMP

CCC CAMP TO LEAVE SAN CLEMENTE

Transfer of 154 Men to Palomar Area Ordered by Officials

SAN CLEMENTE.—Transfer of the CCC camp at San Clemente State park to the Palomar district in May will leave Orange county with but one government camp. The Journal learned today.

The company of 154 men at the San Clemente park, which has been developing the San Clemente and Doheny state parks, will be transferred some time in May, it was learned.

Camp officials said, however, that they expect to have the development work at the two coast camps completed by the time the transfer is made. Members of the camp have been doing soil erosion control work, planting, landscaping, road work, developing parking areas, building comfort stations and benches, and other general park work.

Work done at the San Clemente and Doheny parks has been carried on from headquarters at the San Clemente park.

Although Orange county has about 1000 young men in the CCC service, none is located in Orange county, according to Mrs. Belle Spangler, of the welfare department. The boys are located in other camps in California.

When the San Clemente camp is moved, the El Toro conservation camp will be the only one left to Orange county.

BEACH EASTER RITES SLATED

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Easter will be observed in the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening. At the morning service at 10:30 o'clock, the Rev. Walter B. Cole will have as his subject "The Christ of the Resurrection." Special Easter music will be presented.

A one-act Easter Bible drama will feature the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. The play entitled "I Go a Fishing" written by Mary Dickerson Bangham is unique in that it portrays the life of the characters Peter and his wife Wloshah. These parts will be taken by Oliver Hitterdale and Mrs. Verdie Rime. Special music also will be presented by the choir.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The choir of the First Baptist church will present the Easter cantata, "The Prince of Life" by Evan S. Foster Sunday morning at the regular church services at 10:30 o'clock.

The program includes many choir and solo numbers.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Special services are announced by Father Thomas Foley of the Sts. Simon and Jude Catholic church for Easter. High mass and procession will be at 6 a. m. and low mass at 10 o'clock. Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Cole Kelly.

Sts. Simon and Jude Parish serves the Huntington Beach district, Talbert, Midway City, New Westminster, Wintersburg and Oceanview.

D. C. Tyler Is Feted at Party

OCEANVIEW.—Mrs. F. R. Swartz was a dinner hostess recently, entertaining in honor of her cousin, D. C. Tyler, Los Angeles.

Places were marked for Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Tyler, Vernon and Russell Tyler, Mrs. Gladys McClain, and son Billy, Los Angeles; Lloyd Swartz, Long Beach; Frank Swartz and Yvonne and Fred Swartz, Jr.

MAN of the WEEK

Step right up and meet Orange county's Man of the Week. He's been selected to appear here because of his interest in his community and because friends claim he's a real fellow. Here he is:

Editor Verner C. Beck at San Juan Capistrano doesn't spend all of his time writing "Sermons for Chillon," that popular feature of his weekly Coastline Dispatch. He also compiles and edits his newspaper for benefit of residents of his town.

It must be a year since Editor Beck took over the paper from its former owner, W. O. Maxwell. Since that time he has gained a distinct place in his community. One of those people who're put on committees and very foolishly do all the work.

He is president of the Capistrano Union Rotary club and is a real booster for his community. His only weakness seems to be writing poetry—odes to goats and silk stockings and things. Here's a slight sample:

I love the ice-locked Arctic,
I love the jungles green,
I love all great adventures,
As seen on the news-reel screen.

Editor Beck and his newspaper are going places!

EDITOR VERNER BECK

ALONG ORANGE COUNTY'S WATER FRONT

SATURDAY seems to have a habit of arriving. Because here she is, and as usual, no work done. But it'll probably rain or snow or something anyway, so who cares?

However, the few hardy souls who escape some other sort of Easter observance tomorrow just might—might, I said—enjoy some excellent weather for sailing or fishing or swimming. Weather bureaus are a bit cagey about any predictions, but there're chances that we'll have numerous beams of sunshine, if all goes well.

Now that croaker and other fishing in the bay really has started, we'd better be a bit more explicit about tides. One, so it's claimed, catches fish on high tides and digs clams on low tides. That is, if they're scoundrels and don't buy 'em from that peerless Lynn's Scotsman in Newport.

So, just in case some one might want to break away and snag one of these eight-pound croakers they've been bringing out of the bay, here are the tides: a 4.1 high at 9:52 a. m. and another, 5.1 feet, at 9:41 p. m.—both good ones, you can see. Low at 3:50 a. m. and 3:29 p. m. If you like low tides, those'd be wonderful ones, but who does?

Off to our usual fumbling start, we'll discuss angling before taking up more serious subjects.

This department is almost prostrated to report that the fishing situation isn't so hot—and it isn't those dratted purse seiners, either. It's the mud!

Our recurrent—good word, that!—rains keep quite a section of our very large ocean pretty well muddied up throughout every week. An area from a few hundred yards to nearly a mile out to sea has the appearance of rather weak chocolate. Without the marshmallows. And surf fish, barracudas and even bass hesitate to swim around in that sticky stuff, so they stay away.

Really, they're getting some good spottin' in the bay, however. Clams, as usual. And lots of bass—calicoes—in the upper bay, above the state highway. Also a few halibut and yellowfin up there. Fishing from a rowboat, with clams, most productive.

Darrell King and his live bait boat, which leaves Newport pier every day at 8 o'clock, is still bringing in bass and halibut. Little bass, big halibut, and all customers satisfied.

Trotting boats not excessively happy as yet, although barracuda

Lively has become the live-bait situation. Reports that Newport Bay had not been able to give fishermen the best of service in that department, brings D. W. King, live-bait operator, to remark that he has disappointed a visiting fisherman yet. He operates from the Newport Pier.

Others have headquarters at the Balboa Pavilion, the Nineteenth street pier on the bay front at Newport, and, by the look of it, there'll be more shortly.

Looking for the man with the bandaged hand has been the reason for the lowered glances noticed about the Balboa Marine Hardware store this week.

The burglar that got away with two outboard motors from the newly-opened store building, used his hand to break the glass in a side door through which he made his entry, according to police report. Blood was found spilled on the premises.

Oddly enough, the red clue was spotted, too, in the vicinity of the cash register, but although $50 in cash was said to have been left in the till overnight, not one cent was taken, it was understood.

However, if the burglar has any idea of going back to repair his oversight, the staff says the till will be quite empty well before hand. Leaving cash overnight was not usual.

Nor, for that matter, was

CUT LAGUNA TELEPHONE EXPENSE

LAGUNA BEACH.—Reduction in telephone rates yesterday went into effect following an agreement between the Associated Telephone Co., Ltd. and the California railroad commission.

The changes effect more than 600 subscribers in rates varying from 25c to $1 per month, which represents an annual reduction of several thousand dollars to the community in the cost of telephone service.

The company at present is completing an extensive plant construction project to accommodate the growing need for effective service in Laguna to match property development.

Proof of the rapid growth of the telephone service and the city itself is shown in the increase in telephone service from 490 stations in February 1934 to 870 in February 1937, an increase of 80 per cent in three years.

COUPLE FETED AT DINNER

OCEANVIEW.—Mr. and Mrs. Marion Speer were dinner hosts recently, entertaining at a farewell dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kiser, who left this week for their home in Pittsburgh, Penn.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Murray and Florence, Helen and Alice Ann Murray; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Kiser, Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Noble and Catherine Noble, Huntington Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Speer also recently were hosts to dinner members of the Willing Workers society, entertaining the group at luncheon with a visit to the Western Trails museum, a feature of the afternoon.

Guests were Mrs. Mills Cowling, Mrs. Cowling, Mr. and Mrs. Sarah Hodgins, Mr. and Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Mayme Schuth, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Weeks, Mrs. William Gardner, Mrs. C. V. Brewster, Mrs. Wentzel, Mrs. Ed. Woods, Mrs. Z. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Koontz, Montebello; Mrs. Powell, Long Beach; Mrs. Arthur Eby, Moneta; Mrs. E. Stein, Mrs. Alfred Dowdy and Mrs. R. M. losing two outboards, and police are keeping a sharp eye open for the missing motors. So if a stranger offers you one cheap—well, be careful, anyway.

Day and night duty has been the rule at the harbor master's office of Balboa this week for the harbor master himself. Bouchey has not been satisfied to be on call, but has remained at the waterfront from morning until late at night he said, feeling his official responsibility for the safety of the thousands of Easter holiday visitors boating on the bay in rain and shine, day and dark.

Newport's official fishing prognosticator, sometimes known as the Lynn Scotsman, but always as Hugh McMillan was one of those by the way, dumped in the bay in the squall last Monday aft. He was out sailing, looking for notes, nets or nuts, for his fishing bulletin or something.

At least 30 purse seiners have been working the Orange county coastline throughout the week, scooping up the sardine that would have brought in the big fish everybody has been waiting for all winter.

By the looks of it, there won't be even a sardine left. And up at Sacramento they're still putting the reserve bill through this committee and that, supposedly!

Hearty thanks to all who gave him a hand were extended by Harbor master Tom Bouchey following the mass rescue of more than 50 boys and girls from the bay

G. G. EASTER RITES ARE ARRANGED

GARDEN GROVE.—Special Easter services are being arranged for all churches in this community according to announcements of the various pastors.

Outstanding among these will be the cantata "Lord of Lords" to be given by the choir of the First Methodist church at the 7 o'clock evening service. Irvine German is director and Mrs. Margaret Day Rogers accompanist. For the morning service at 11 o'clock the choir will also give as an anthem "The Love Divine." There will be a baptismal service, a reception for new members and a special Easter offering service. The pastor, Dr. Charles F. Seitter, will speak on "The Impulse of the Resurrection."

The topic of the pastor of the First Baptist church, the Rev. W. J. Keech, for the morning service will be "The Power of an Endless Life." A baptismal service will also be held and the choir will give special music. For the evening service at 7 o'clock a life-sized reproduction of the ascending Christ will be unveiled and special musical numbers will be given.

The Alamos Friends church has planned a sunrise sermon for 5:30 o'clock following which all will remain at the church for an Easter breakfast. College age young people of the church will be in charge of the early service with the junior department of the Sunday school to present an Easter program at a unified service to start at 10:15 o'clock.

Exonerate Man In Auto Death

COSTA MESA.—Frank A. Strunk, 25, Newport fisherman, was exonerated from all blame in the death of Leroy H. Worcester, at a coroner's inquest held here Thursday.

Worcester died Monday as the result of being struck by Strunk's car in Newport Saturday. The 40-year-old Bellflower cook is survived by his mother, Maude Crapnell, also of Bellflower; one brother, Ralph H. of Seattle and a sister, Mrs. Florence Cleveland, Costa Mesa.

FETED ON BIRTHDAY

OCEANVIEW.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Groves entertained at a dinner and theater party in Long Beach Wednesday evening in honor of their daughter, Dalice Mae, who was observing her 12th birthday.

Included in the party were Maxine Murdy, Maudean Graham and Peggy-Jean Smith.

waters last Monday afternoon when that sudden squall swamped 22 sailboats.

Nobody was hurt—except by the pelting hail that swept down during those freak five minutes. The harbor master and those along the waterfront who helped him get the collegiate crews ashore said their hands and faces still were stinging from the impact of the icy pellets late that night.

Nor did the drenching of the spring vacationists put any tremendous amount of clothing on the line to dry. Though the weather all week had been anything but warm, the holiday-makers wore their spring togs and beach things regardless.

More adults shivered at the sight of them. But then, mere adults would.

Monday, by the way, was no exception as to the size of the fleet of rentboats out on the bay. Every day rentboat floats have been as busy as any place at Balboa.

FUGITIVE BRIDE

By RUTH LOUISE AYRES

"The newspapers are full of the approaching marriage of Martha Halliday, daughter of the wealthy Peter Halliday, to handsome young Nicholas Garnett, playboy scion of a fine old family. But Martha is worried. Nick's attentions to other girls have been numerous, and now he has gone off on a trip in his car, and is rumored to be coming home with a new bride."

"The wedding Martha overhears gossip that Nick is marrying her only because of the financial aid her father can give to the Garnett Tobacco company. Stunned, she determines to run away from her wedding and set out in her car. Meanwhile, Nick is trailing Nita Lombard, the dancer, on her tour about the country. He arranges by wire to meet her at Oakville, the resort where she is scheduled to dance that night."

CHAPTER VI

As Peter Halliday came out of his office in the Halliday building at 5 o'clock he found Barry Dean, reporter, waiting for him. Earlier in the day, the financier had sent out word that he couldn't see him. Dean, however, had come back.

"Hello, Mr. Halliday," the reporter said easily. He knew the banker well.

"Hello, Dean. What's on your mind?"

"Wanted to get a little more dope on the wedding. Understand the governors of three states will be there."

"Where'd you hear that?"

"A little bird told me." Barry Dean smiled disarmingly.

Peter Halliday, tall and trim, with silver hair and mustache, eyed the handsome young reporter with amusement.

"Nothing escapes you, does it? Well, I don't know whether the governors will get here or not. There is nothing definite about it."

"I see. Where is Martha, by the way?" This was the question Dean really wanted answered.

"Martha? Why, home, I suppose. What makes you ask?"

"She had an appointment with me at 1 o'clock—and she didn't show up."

Halliday was secretly glad she hadn't kept that appointment. Too much had been printed about the approaching wedding already. Besides, Barry Dean had been showing too much personal interest in Martha lately, under the guise of seeking news for his paper.

"Too bad," the banker replied, "but you know how busy a girl is three days before her wedding."

"Would you tell me I'll phone her about six?" Dean asked.

"All right," Halliday nodded absently, and departed.

Barry Dean had been assigned to the Halliday-Garnett story because it was big news when one of the richest girls in the country was getting married, and, though the society department could take care of the routine angles of the story, a sharp-witted, fast-speaking reporter was needed to ferret out any front page material that might be available.

And now—Barry had a hunch. When Martha had failed to keep her appointment with him today, he had been puzzled. She had always been so punctual for previous appointments with him—apparently glad to see him and talk to him. Hence, her failure to appear today had set him speculating.

He knew that Nick Garnett had not been as devoted a fiance as he might have been, and that he was now chasing after a dancing dynamo named Nita Lombard. Thus, the thought had passed through Barry's mind. "I wonder if, by any chance, Martha would call it all off at the last minute? Maybe she's already run off somewhere." It was just a hunch—but a strong one.

Later, out of curiosity, he had checked with Martha's secretary on the other appointments she had had for the afternoon and had learned, by circuitous means, that, just as she had broken her appointment with him, she had also failed to show up at the hairdresser's and at a bridge party where she was to have been honored guest and, moreover, that she had not been home since morning.

All this information had strengthened Barry's hunch that something was wrong somewhere. Hence, his call on Peter Halliday to see if he could pry anything out of him. But if anything had gone wrong, the old man apparently did not know it yet.

Leaving the Halliday building, Barry walked down the street to a drug store and stepped into a phone booth. He called the Garnett home.

"This is Wendell Brothers," he said in an untidy voice. "May I speak to Mr. Nicholas Garnett? It is in reference to the new morning suit."

"Mr. Garnett is not at home," answered the voice of a butler. "May I take the message?"

"He was to have a fitting at five o'clock today."

"I am sorry, but Mr. Garnett was unavoidably delayed, and will not be home until tomorrow."

"I see. Thank you."

Barry next called his paper and spoke to the city editor.

"Hello, Forest," he said. "Dean speaking. I think I smell a rat in the Halliday-Garnett wedding story."

"What?"

"I'm not sure but I think something's up. If you don't need me on anything else, I'm going to keep on plugging at a hunch."

"Sure—go to it. What's the hunch?"

"It's too dizzy to bear the strain of being aired just yet. But here's something you can add to the wedding yarn. Three governors are coming."

"Did Pete Halliday tell you that?"

"No—he hedged, but I had already stopped around to see a high-up pal of mine who is in the know, and he had verified it. It's straight."

"I suppose you'll tell me next that the President is coming to the wedding."

"He's debating it," Barry drawled. "Well, I'll call you again later, Goober."

Barry stepped out of the booth and looked at his watch. He had half an hour to kill before six o'clock, when he would call the Halliday residence to find out if Martha had returned.

He devoted the time to thinking about Martha—not from the reporter's point of view. "If she only didn't have those millions," he mused, but let the thought stop there. An impoverished young newspaper man, he chided himself, had no business getting romantic about an heiress.

COLLEGE FETE GAINS NEW RECRUITS

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Renewed zest was expected to be displayed by collegiate Easter vacationists at Balboa today as reinforcements arrived from Whittier and Redlands, U. C. L. A. and other Southern California schools just closing.

Clearing weather was bringing the holiday-makers back to the beach, and changing the minds of those few that had been ready to pack up and go home if the rain did not stop soon.

Never in the history of the famous fun week has spring been ushered in with a hail storm and snowball battles as was the scene this year, it was generally conceded. Always before it has been burn salve that Balboa drug-gists sold until it hurt.

This season they say it has been nothing but nose drops and cold cures, an unexpected shift in seasonal sales that has quite depleted their stock.

POSTPONE KITE FLYING FETE

WESTMINSTER.—The fourth annual kite flying contest scheduled for Tuesday, March 23, was postponed on account of a wet field, to Tuesday, March 30.

Sponsored by the chamber of commerce, interest in the contest has increased each year. Prizes are donated by the merchants and townspeople and are displayed in the lobby of the Westminster school a week or 10 days prior to the fete. Only pupils of the Hoover and Westminster schools are eligible to compete.

Events are divided in two classes with four divisions in each class.

M. C. CHAMBER MEETING SET

MIDWAY CITY.—Ed L. Hensley, president of the Midway City chamber of commerce, will preside at the monthly meeting of the organization on Monday evening and will discuss proposed zoning restrictions.

The meeting is called for 7:30 p. m. at the Esser barber shop.

Naomi Stinson Struck by Car

OCEANVIEW.—Naomi Stinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stinson, suffered painful injuries recently when she was struck by an automobile while walking on Huntington Beach boulevard.

Miss Stinson was thrown to the pavement suffering a broken foot, torn ligaments and severe lacerations. R. Burns, Orange, was reported as driver of the car.

'SEVENTH HEAVEN' LIVES ON SCREEN AGAIN AT BROADWAY SUNDAY

FILM'S STAR IS SIMONE SIMON

James Stewart Is Seen In Role of Sewer Worker, Chico

"Seventh Heaven," Austin Strong's immortal love story, lives again on the screen when it opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater for a limited showing on a bill that has the gay comedy, "We Have Our Moments," supplying the hilarity of the double feature offering.

The honors of "Seventh Heaven" are divided primarily between the moving picturization of tender romance, and the fact that in it emerges a pair of players who are destined to be two of Hollywood's greatest stars. They are Simone Simon and James Stewart.

Miss Simone Plays Diane, surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational French screen find. Stewart, who was borrowed from another studio for the role of Chico, shines opposite Miss Simon as the "very remarkable fellow" of the valiant spirit and shy, yearning love.

For the background, the producers have recreated a vivid and picturesque Montmartre, set in turbulent days of 1914. In the huge sewer Chico spends his working days, scornful of the province that failed, first to make him a street washer, and second, to bring him a fine, intelligent wife.

Chico saves Diane from a beating and also from the gendarmes who would arrest her for throwing wine in the face of a cafe customer who annoyed her. To do this, he has to pose as Diane's husband and, forced to live up to his false story, he takes Diane to his garret, where the vista and stars at night makes him forget the day long toil in the sewer. When war breaks out he is called to the army, just as he realizes that he is in love with Diane.

Continues Trust. Despite news of Chico's death, Diane continues to keep a trust that they made, a faith that leads to one of the screen's greatest emotional moments in a powerful conclusion.

The supporting cast includes such names as Jean Hersholt, Gregory Ratoff, Gale Sondergaard, John Qualen, J. Edward Bromberg, Thomas Beck and Mady Christians.

Adding hilarity to the Broadway program will be the feature comedy, "We Have Our Moments." Sally Eilers, James Dunn and Mischa Auer are starred. Also is included a new Disney Silly Symphony in color, and World News Events. Shows will be continuous throughout the day.

New Star Makes Debut in Film Due Here Soon

Two items of more than passing importance to motion picture audiences are found in the announcement that "King and the Chorus Girl" is to be presented on the screen of the Broadway theater shortly. First, it will mark the American debut of Fernand Mervyn LeRoy, under his new status as producer. Most of the top ranking hits from that studio have been directed by LeRoy.

Gravet plays the role of a spendthrift young ex-king who, having lost his throne and kingdoms, turns to the gaieties of Paris. Then comes his rollicking, trouble-strewn romance with an American chorus girl, played by Joan Blondell. Among others in the cast are Edward Everett Horton, Mary Nash, Alan Mowbray, Jane Wyman and Luis Alberni.

NOW SHOWING AT THE Broadway Theater

CALIFORNIA—U. S. launches latest submarine.

NEW YORK—Motion picture industry realizes memorial to Will Rogers as Will Hays turns over hospital deed.

LONDON—King George and Queen Elizabeth pose for Movietone at charity ballet.

ENGLAND—Over-confident inventor stunts his new plane just to show it can't crash... so it crashes.

NEWSPAPER—Basking in the Florida sunshine, Lew Lohr mixes it up with some belligerent ladies... and gets soaked.

SPORTS—A trotting race through the streets of the "hottest" town in New England where they'd race for fun.

FASHIONS—A very alluring collection of chic chapeaux for the Easter parade is presented by Movietone models.

Co-Stars in 'Seventh Heaven'

James Stewart as "Chico" and Simone Simon as "Diane" are shown above in a scene from the modernized production of "Seventh Heaven," opening at the Broadway tomorrow. On the same bill, James Dunn and Sally Eilers star in a sparkling comedy, "We Have Our Moments."

They're Lovers in 'Camille'

Greta Garbo and Robert Taylor are pictured above as the lovers of "Camille," which opens Sunday at Walker's theater for an engagement of three days.

'QUALITY STREET' COMES TO BROADWAY NEXT WEEK

With the new movie season now in full swing as the studios release their most impressive output in the history of the industry, Santa Ana will be given early showings of the best of the new screen products.

Manager Les Fountain of the local Fox theaters has all the hits signed, sealed and ready to be delivered as quickly as his current Broadway and West Coast theater hits have been shown.

Following "Seventh Heaven" at the Broadway comes the new Katharine Hepburn picture, "Quality Street." "Lloyds of London" follows "Maytime" into the West Coast theater.

"Quality Street" departs from the trend and gives Miss Hepburn her greatest role in years. The J. M. Barrie comedy will be a relief to those who appreciate gentler humor. It is a story of England in the early nineteenth century, when a genteel courtship allowed for no kisses before the plighting of the troth, and when a lady had to pretend to be unaware even of what was going on. All this is doubly true of Phoebe Throssel (Miss Hepburn), for she lives entirely surrounded by old maids, who keep track of every visit of the dashing Dr. Brown (Fanchot Tone).

The excitement begins when he comes back from the wars after an absence of 10 years and finds Phoebe converted into an old-maid school teacher.

Fay Bainter has the part of romantic old-maid sister, Estelle Winwood is a snooty neighbor, Eric Blore a recruiting sergeant, and Florence Lake a wistful maiden lady.

An added feature, "Midnight Court," with Ann Dvorak, John Littel, Stanley Fields and William Davidson, will be included.

At the Broadway theater for the last times tonight one can follow the nimble feet of one of the nearest tap-dancing teams on the screen to learn what happens to Jane Clark, an American girl with a gift for dancing, who is mistaken for an English musical comedy star and hired by a young Broadway producer to appear in a show that means life or death to him.

The two dancers are Ruby Keeler and Lee Dixon. The apt title for their first co-starring film is "Ready, Willing and Able." The young showman is played by the late Ross Alexander, cast once again as one of those breezy, fast-talking optimists. With romance soon struck between the masquerading Jane and the showman, it is not too difficult to guess that his fate on Broadway is a successful hit.

There are many other comedians to keep the fun going. Allen Jenkins plays a dumb agent, Louise Fazenda, Wini Shaw, Carol Hughes, Teddy Hart, Hugh O'Connell and E. E. Olive are a few who give able aid to the swift picture.

The twin feature on the Broadway closing bill was Virginia Bruce and Kent Taylor starred in "When Love Is Young." Taylor is given more opportunity to act than ever before.

Walter Brennan, who won the Academy award for the best character performance in 1936, has a prominent part.

'CAMILLE' AT WALKER'S SUNDAY

The Dumas love story, "Camille," comes to Walker's theater tomorrow on a great Easter bill that also presents a return engagement of one of the late Will Rogers' greatest films, "Ambassador Bill."

Greta Garbo and Robert Taylor are the co-stars of "Camille." The story is that of a Parisian beauty who gives up wealth and social position for the love of the one man who has meant anything to her. And for the first time, Garbo in "Camille" sings, as well as dances and plays the piano.

Taylor enacts the difficult role of Armand, while others prominently cast in the picture are Lionel Barrymore, Elizabeth Allen, Jessie Ralph, Henry Danell, Lenore Ulric and Laura Hope Crews.

The Rogers film, "Ambassador Bill," was brought back by popular demand of local film lovers. It is a story of a Mid-west American suddenly set down as a goodwill ambassador in a mythical European kingdom full of pomp, ceremony and intrigue. And Bill turns everything upside down in an attempt to run things on a democratic and humane basis.

Supporting Rogers in the cast are Greta Nissen, Marguerite Churchill and Gustav von Seyffertitz.

Rounding out the program, which runs for three days, will be a cartoon and newsreel.

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(Opinions and comment expressed in this column are not necessarily those of The Journal—Editor's note.)

Here is some hot news from national headquarters in Chicago. It came to Los Angeles late last night. Dr. Francis E. Townsend will address a Townsend mass meeting in San Diego April 6. He will be at the Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles in a great gathering Thursday evening, April 8; Friday afternoon, April 9, in the municipal auditorium in Long Beach; and in Pasadena on April 10.

Here is some more news that will interest Orange county Townsends. The 17th congressional district Townsend board has employed Herbert F. Kenny as district manager. Kenny has long been a faithful friend to the Townsend cause and his capabilities are many. The 17th district is fortunate in securing his services. This evening he will preside at a Townsend mass meeting in the Bret Harte school auditorium in that district. His district headquarters will be at 7611 South Vermont street, Los Angeles.

Santa Ana club No. 2 and friends will hold a pot-luck supper at 6 o'clock Monday evening in Santa Ana Townsend hall. All Townsends are invited to bring their own table service and a covered dish. The NYA orchestra under the direction of T. Dunstan Collins will furnish music. Following the dinner, a business session will be held at 7:30 with P. R. Long, president, in charge. The Rev. W. W. Ringland, United Brethren pastor of Whittier will be the speaker. The Rev. Mr. Ringland was pastor of the church of that faith in Santa Ana for five years before going to Whittier.

West Coast to Show 'Lloyds of London'

The inner workings of the most extraordinary and exciting business organization in the world, Lloyds of London, the father of modern insurance and the forerunner of world-wide news agencies, is told in the motion picture, "Lloyds of London," which is booked for an early showing at the West Coast theater.

Consisting of about 1500 individuals, Lloyds itself writes no insurance policies. These are written by member underwriters as individuals, and no policy is granted for a longer term than one year.

In the picture Tyrone Power, newest screen sensation, is seen in the leading role with Madeleine Carroll and Freddy Bartholomew co-starring. The late Sir Guy Standing, C. Aubrey Smith, Douglas Scott and Virginia Field are in the leading supporting roles.

'MAYTIME' AT STATE SHOWS 'WHIPSAW' SUNDAY

"Maytime," based on the Broadway play, came to the West Coast theater for a limited run yesterday with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy sharing starring honors, and John Barrymore in the leading supporting role.

The producers have gone to great lengths to offer a film that will top anything of the musical nature in pictures, and that they have succeeded with witness by the hundreds who came from all parts of the county last night to see the picture's first local showing.

Miss MacDonald and Eddy add further to the laurels they won in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie" with their acting and their voices. "Will You Remember?" the hit song from the original stage production, is sung by the stars, and Miss MacDonald sings two complete operatic arias as well as parts of others. Eddy contributes three novelty songs, "Student's Drinking Song," "Vive L'Opera" and "Virginia Ham and Eggs." Together they offer "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

John Barrymore, in his first role since his part in "Romeo and Juliet," portrays a temperamental impresario, husband of the lovely star, Lynne Carver, a newcomer to the screen, is seen in the juvenile romantic lead opposite Tom Brown.

The story concerns the love of Jeanette for Nelson Eddy, a singing student. Actuated by a mistaken sense of duty, the opera star marries her instructor to whom she owes her career. The lovers must part, but they meet again on the stage where both are cast in an opera. Trapped by husband Barrymore in the act of fleeing the country, Eddy is killed. The tragedy answers to problem of Miss Carver and Tom Brown who have come to Miss MacDonald for advice and have the story of her career related to them.

Another Warner Bros. feature, "The Romance of Robert Burns," in color; a Merrie Melodie color cartoon, and World News Events will complete the program.

With them in the cast are Winifred Shaw, John Littel, Gordon Oliver, Carlyle Moore, Jr., and others.

Also on the bill is chapter No. 9 of "Phantom Rider," starring Buck Jones.

CHORAL MUSIC FOR VESPER SERVICE

Another of the Easter vesper hours which have made the first Methodist church here a center for lovers of choral music will be presented tomorrow at 5:30 by the church choir and the Cecilia Singers, under the direction of Halstead McCormack.

The program will be built around several fine choruses to be sung by combined groups, including the seldom-performed Beethoven Hallelujah chorus from "The Mount of Olives." The congregation will be given a greater opportunity to participate than ever before, since several well-known hymns will be included in the program of great compositions.

Among the many leading soloists who will be featured are Elizabeth Morgan, Irma Rutter and Dorothy Nowlin, sopranos; Laura Joiner and LaVerne Van Wyk, contraltos; Marjorie Hare and Gustav Koehler, tenors; and Donald Krueger and H. F. Kenny, basses.

They will join in ensemble performances of several eight-part choral works, including arrangements by Harvey Gaul of an ancient German ascension song, and a Czechoslovakian Easter carol. An intermission interpretive reading will be given by Arthur Casey. Christine Lambert will be at the organ console, and Esther Vogt, Cecilia Singers' accompanist, will officiate at the piano.

THORNE IN THE FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE
"Mary!"... "Master!"

For the past three months we have been studying the active ministry of Christ as recorded by the apostle John. John the beloved, John the revealer, the John of spiritual heart throbs who has been telling us of Jesus the lowly Nazarene, the life and light of men of all ages.

We have watched this Jesus turn water into wine; heal the lame and the blind; restore peace and sanity to the ill of mind; feed the multitudes; give a new law of life for mankind. We have seen mighty works of physical and spiritual miracles wrought in supernatural power.

And then this last week we saw Him betrayed and sold for 30 pieces of silver. We saw Him in Pilate's hall, and heard the angry mob cry "Give us Barabbas! Away with Jesus! Crucify Him!" And Friday we looked back across the centuries and followed Him as he staggered up the hill bearing the cross of sins of the world, fainting beneath the heavy load. We witnessed the driving of the nails, and heard the thud of the cross as it dropped into its place.

We saw Him being given vinegar to drink; we saw Him being crowned with thorns. We looked on, as they cast lots for His seamless robe—following cruel beatings of Roman soldiery, and heard cutting, biting darts of human mockery.

This Jesus, who said He was the Life and Light of men, and the Light of the world, this Jesus of all ages was apparently snuffed out on Golgotha's hill as we witnessed His crucifixion between two thieves. We heard that cry of utter desolation to the Father and the heart-rending "It is finished." And we saw that now pierced bruised body with no form or comeliness that we should desire it, taken by fearful Joseph and secretly prepared in company with Nicodemus, and His tomb sealed, and guards placed. And His disciples came by night and stole Him away, and say unto the priest, "He is risen from the dead."

Had the story ended there, in that rock-bound, Roman sealed sepulcher of Joseph, there would have been no gospel by John, nor would there have been a resurrection. Nor would there be the glad Easter Sunday, some nineteen hundred years later.

But the story did not end there, it led us on to our observations. It is the dawn of the first day of a new week. We notice Mary Magdalene, one of His devoted followers, wandering her way toward the sepulcher. Let us slip along quietly beside her. Her darkness still unfolds the surrounding garden. Dawn is beginning to break the eastern sky. Mary halts, we note a look of ensuing consternation.

Now the rosy fingers of dawn thrust themselves through the sky and over dull Judean hills, and in the more clean light of breaking day we see that the stone is rolled away from the entrance of the sepulcher and peering in we see two shining angels being sitting in celestial like calm where the body had lain.

John and Peter come, and seeing the body gone and not comprehending the prophetic promises of scripture, return home in deep sorrow. But Mary lingers, and with tear-laden eyes she stoops and looks in a second time. Not discerning the angels as such, she replies to the question, "Woman, why weepest thou?" that someone has taken away the body of her Lord. Oh poor weak humanity, failing to grasp the significance of the empty tomb! How like so many today who do not understand that Christ is risen indeed—not stolen or removed by fanatical followers—and lives to reign and rule in the lives of those who believe and accept.

Then, still hindered by her human weakness, still looking through tear-dimmed eyes, Mary answers the query of whom she supposes to be the gardener, and express her desire to care for what she thought to be a lifeless body.

As I go on towards Heaven I can shout "Oh Death where is thy sting?" and I hear the answer rolling down from Calvary as echoing in the vacated tomb "Buried in the bosom of the Son of God."—D. L. Moody.

But in one word the despairing sorrow of the cross is swept away! In one word the despondent gloom of an empty tomb is dispersed! "Mary!"

We can only wonder and guess what all that single word meant to her. It may have been laden with pathetic sense of utter desolation experienced by a rejected and unrecognized Messiah. Rejected by His own generation and chosen race—unrecognized for the moment by this very Mary of Magdala whose life had been so transformed by Him.

It may have embraced only the tone of a pleading Savior, who yet today implores mankind to accept His rest to weary souls. It may have been spoken in an inflexion embodying pathos and pleading, with gentle command. "Look, Mary! See it is I! I am risen, do you recognize Me?"

In fancy we hear in low trembling voice, half fearful and doubtful, half hopeful and expectant. "Oh Master! Yes, Jesus, it is You. I know You. I've known You as the Christ of every road. I've known You as the Christ of miracles, as the Christ of Calvary, and now I know You as the Christ of resurrection and life eternal."

Mary, in a sense we envy you, that you were thus honored to be the first among men to have revealed the glorified, resurrected Christ. Yet in a larger sense, we of today enjoy the fuller experience, the happier privilege, a life the richer nineteen hundred years after that first Easter morning.

Mary, the full effects of the teachings of your Master and ours have been felt the world around, and despite the mad caprices of war, famine, flood and pestilence, the spirit and principles laid down by Him are of eternal worth, increasing in strength and efficacy as time rolls on.

Mary, out of who He had cast seven devils and the first to whom He appeared, you did not fail His command to go and tell others. May we ever be as faithful!

Oh Thou once lowly Carpenter of Nazareth, would that mankind today would answer in such attitude of joy and love to the first beck and call as did Mary that first Easter morning. Would that today men's hearts were as ready to receive Thee as was that humble woman's in that garden of sorrow turned to joy.

Oh Kingly Messiah, speak, we pray, in soft tones of tender rest to this very Easter as Thou didst to Mary. Enter every trembling heart, strengthen each weakened soul, renew courage in our fleeing spirits, crown our worship with Thine own loving kindness, and grant to us souls of life eternal and joy divine here and in that place which you have gone to prepare for us!

Salute to the churches of Santa Ana for their commemoration and part in helping to renew our faith in the Risen Lord at this season of the year.

If you have a regular church home, plan to attend tomorrow. In tonight's Journal you will find announcements of special Easter services, with a short message by the Rev. Mr. Albert Eakin Kelly, president of the Santa Ana Ministerial association.

The Easter Story

MATTHEW 28:1-10

In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulcher. And, behold, there was a great earthquake; for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here; for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him; lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulcher with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him. Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid; go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

SEA-GOING RAILROAD

Water, water everywhere but not a drop to drink—nor to use for making concrete. That was the strange problem which faced construction of the Florida East Coast Railway Over-Sea Extension. Salt water cannot be used in the preparation of concrete. As a result, strange as it seems, fresh water from Miami had to be hauled along the route of the sea-going railroad for the building of its concrete bridges and supports.

Running from island to island of the Florida Keys into the Gulf of Mexico, trains on the line operated 124 miles out from the tip of the mainland. Operation of the line was discontinued after the gulf hurricane of 1935 when sections of the railroad was thought too dangerous to continue.

The line presented problems utterly foreign to the ordinary railroad. All its trains were held up during the storms as gales exceeding 45 miles an hour were considered dangerous.

While traveling over water on the palatial "Havana Special," one of the Extension expresses, it was actually possible to enjoy a swim. There was a swimming tank aboard the train.

Judge Stump

Dear Judge: Is it true that a plumber always forgets some of his tools?

W. P. G.
Cousin Hunk Stump, who was a plumber in Reokuk, never forgot anything but his lunch. One day, however, he forgot what he was doing and connected the natural gas main to his bathtub. Cousin Hunk's not plumbing any more.

Cutwork Dresses Up Your Linens

PATTERN 5813

Cutwork with applique—spell gay linens—handsome linens—durable linens! When your over-night guest turns down the coverlet she'll brighten with delight at dress and pillow cases treated this festive way. The butterfly (a single patch) stands out in applique against roses of cutwork, the butterfly's edges left raw and just buttonholed down. You can use the design for a scarf or towel, too, and you can do it entirely in cutwork if you wish. In pattern 5813 you will find a transfer pattern of a motif 6 1/2 x 36 inches, two motifs 5 1/2 x 20 1/2 inches and of the applique patches; material requirements; directions for doing cutwork and applique; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Santa Ana Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Teachers and Loyalty

THAT the preservation of our democratic form of government is more and more becoming the concern of school executives strikes George R. Wells, chairman of the Santa Ana school board, as an outstanding point of the recent convention of the National Education association which he attended in New Orleans. This is a splendid sign.

It is a real relief from the hysteria which recently swept the nation regarding the loyalty of teachers and which resulted in several states passing laws that forced teachers to swear they had not mentioned Communism before they could draw their paychecks.

So-called teachers' loyalty oaths are, generally speaking, the spawn of world unrest—social, economic or political.

They were born in the days of the Civil war, but they lapsed until the World war, and only came to light again the last time in the recent anti-red wave. Now the sentiment has turned against the "loyalty" oath.

The American Legion, for instance, in 1934 favored the oaths, but in 1936 specifically reversed its stand and condemned any curb on the freedom of teaching.

We are inclined to believe that the teachers, as a whole, do as much and probably more than any other professional group in the nation to teach love and respect for the flag, law and order, and the American form of government.

Mr. Wells' observation that school executives are more and more concerned with true patriotism is something which all of us might see if we looked a little closer at the actual facts.

The Danes have designed a gas mask which permits the wearer to smoke. Probably the next development will be one which makes it possible to eat spaghetti.

He Is Risen

TOMORROW is Easter; and just as Christmas brings the message "Christ is born," so does Easter tell us "Christ is risen."

Easter is a day of promise. It signifies that the forces of light have overcome the forces of darkness; that daylight has become a greater portion of the 24 hours than night; that spring is here; that the blossom is on the tree with its promise of fruit when the warmth and beauty of summer arrives.

This is like unto the world—a world emerging from darkness into light, into a period when disease and disaster shall pass from mankind.

As Stuart Whitehouse says: Easter does not mean that evil will miraculously be swept from the heart of man at the break of the happy day. But it does mean that some day will come a time when there will be no war, no grinding down of the unfortunate, no greed and selfishness.

Easter promises that such a day will come. The world goes on its way. More and more men realize that friendship with one's fellow man is the real road to all happiness.

Yes, Easter brings a cleansing of the spirit and the promise of a new clean world. Sometimes this promise, like a seed in spring, will develop as naturally as a flower grows from the earth. Then, indeed, we will know Easter.

L. A. woman screams in court to show the judge what her marriage ceremony to an Indian was like. In most marriages the screaming comes after the ceremony.

Give Wildflowers a Chance!

A MOVEMENT is being launched in Northern California to declare a three-year closed season on wildflowers. It has its origin in the Wildflower Conservation league.

Wisely, Mrs. Bertha M. Rice and other officers of the league have decided against legislation and will make an appeal for a voluntary ban.

"Let us all get together in giving the wildflowers a chance to come back," says President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford in supporting the movement. "Nothing could add more to the beauty of California and give more satisfaction to our visitors than a wide display of native wildflowers."

Several varieties of flowers have been almost exterminated. Poppy fields are greatly diminished. One of California's glories will disappear entirely unless we resist the temptation to pick those that are left.

Let us see if we cannot bring about a public sentiment that will make it bad form and bad citizenship to be seen with picked wildflowers.

San Diego zoo reports the world's first incubator-hatched emu. We'll bet he was counted before he was hatched.

Nature Shows the Way

LOCAL rancher draws attention to the fact that puddles of water which collect now in his orchard disappear almost overnight, whereas several months ago they would stand for several days.

This seems to be a paradox in that the dry ground at the start of the rainy season should absorb more water than the wet ground of today.

But the riddle is explained by Ted Sharp, of Anaheim, who says that the water sinks more readily in wet ground, since its subterranean movement is lubricated by the moisture already present.

Nature has a simple way of solving every difficulty. When more water falls, it sinks in faster. This simplicity is evident in thousands of ways.

The trouble doesn't start until man takes a hand and upsets natural balances.

On our way: The United States daily spends $7,935,066 beyond its income.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

It's stimulating for fireside duellers to step-up their dreamy gazing now and then to blink at the gay realities.

To sock themselves to the Adam's Apple with white tie splendor, do things. Indeed raise the very Old Dickens.

I'm back in the carpet slippers and the frayed Burlington Arcade robe today nibbling at the southeast corner of a gram cracker and sipping diluted orange juice. You know, pale but interesting! Either my eyes are fever bright with recollection or I have the bots.

Not that I cut into the grape or rhumbed myself into a setting of lumbar, but I did have a mid-night affair with a bubbly Welsh rarebit, helled around at 2 a. m. in a waltz and joined a group at the piano to blend my slow alto into a rendition of "I Adore You!"

The comfort of spitting the town wide open at intervals is to see for yourself how goofy it is. How utterly ashine. It is incredible that I used to think that sort of capering was the life and to stay at home an evening with a book was simply a blackout to a day of real living.

Yet withal it was fun—for the one evening! If there is a more beautiful lass than the cigar girl at El Morocco I haven't seen her. And there was that furred minx is a high bar chair at the Stork club who could show some of the boys who think they are rounders a few tricks. For the half hour I watched her she must have smoked chain fashion, at least 20 cigarettes and downed, also chain fashion, six whisky sours—and she hopped off the chair and walked out as straight as a string, stopping at a hall mirror to rubette inviting lips and give that certain do to a dollar-watch-sized chapeau. And those tight-collared, cuff-shooting boys with green-gray, slightly furtive eyes soaring with the balloon emptiness of phony—and looking for a string, foolish widow trying to be so maid-like again. Also the collegiate-looking orchestras jumping up at intervals to huddle at the microphone like puppets moved by strings.

Then the inevitable old fool in the paper hat at the Paradise. He was swashed to the armpits and pounded the go-golies out of the tablecloth with a soup spoon. When the cuties in scanty decor paraded by in the musical numbers reached out to pinch or tickle them and the poor dears coyly giggled—they had to do it as a part of their job. During the evening it was announced that Pig Jowls was giving a birthday party and when the orchestra played "Happy Birthday to You" he stood on his chair and led the orchestra with a beer bottle—that type. Terrible if one is cold sober and not so hot if plastered.

A phase of cafe life one cannot help noticing these days in the better places is the clanking of employees—especially the waiters, captains and bar men. All are freshly barbered, neatly manicured, hair trimmed to a feather edge and uniforms snowy spotless.

Too, there were the dancing drunks. They never sat at a table but weave from bar to dance floor in alcoholic blur. Holding to each other, they go into a clinch on the floor edge and do a sort of draggy drop around the room, bumping into this one and that and expressing the vacuity of a dog scratching for an ear flea. He has a Dick Powell mustache and will be saying to the boys at the office next morning: "Was I jingled last night?" And one cannot help but wince at the thought of her.

Will her night on the loose be a prelude to a lay-off or perhaps a notice in the glove department? Or were they married folk indulging the chicanery Broadway knows as cheating? Anyway, they were a mess. Finally, two attendants scooped them, oyster white, out to the taxi-sickening. I think my dog asleep in various hat check rooms probably had the dandiest time of all.

Anyway, I had fun and am looking forward when dusk whorls its arabesques to a drive that will wind up at a moon-streamed haven in the country for a different sort of night. In an entirely different stratum of peace, a world where trees and bushes are spangled with due, giving back to the moon a responsive yellow gleam. Give me one night of it and you can have your 10 nights in the bar rooms with all the trimmings. Especially, ho, ho, the trimmings!

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The Grand Order of the Brass Ring, awarded to those who can ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round and at the same time keep their heads and their sense of humor, goes this week to Oswaldo Aranha, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Brazil.)

WASHINGTON.—If the South American wheel of politics spins in the direction it is now headed, Brazil will get an outstanding president, and the United States will lose a superb diplomat and one of the best loved envoys to this capital city.

The gentleman in question is Oswaldo Aranha, ambassador from Brazil, ex-gaúcho, fighter in many revolutions, keen student of the United States, and keener student of human nature.

At present Aranha is on leave in Brazil, where a hot campaign is being waged prior to the presidential nomination to be held in May. Aranha returned to Brazil in order to receive President Roosevelt.

He declined at first to leave Washington, saying: "If I go down there I shall get mixed up in politics." And he was right.

"I don't want to run for president," Aranha told friends before his departure. "What Brazil needs is a nurse. I am a surgeon."

However, his friend, President Vargas, whom Aranha made president in 1930, demanded his return, later pushed him into the political arena.

TWICE WOUNDED
Oswaldo Aranha is only 43 years old. But into that period he has squeezed two lifetimes. Son of a wealthy cattleman in Rio Grande do Sul, southernmost province of Brazil, he studied at the military college of Rio de Janeiro, and at the law school of the university, then was sent to the swank Ecole des Hautes Etudes Sociales in Paris, and came home to plunge into politics. At the age of only 32 he was mayor of his home city, Alegre, and at the age of 33 he was leader of a revolutionary army.

When Aranha calls himself a "surgeon," not a nurse, he probably is thinking of the five different revolutions he led in eight years. It is easy for him to remember them, for he still has a bullet in one shoulder and a heel partly shot away.

In the last revolution, Aranha spent a year in the saddle, seldom slept indoors, and quit only after he had ousted President Washington Luiz in 1930.

GUN THREAT
Aranha has ybe a political surgeon, but he is also one of the most sagacious students of human nature Washington has known.

What bit of news has interested you most recently? British rearmament.

If you were editor of The Journal what one change would you make in the paper? None.

What do you like best in The Journal? Editorial page.

What one thing would help Santa Ana most? New junior college.

What in your judgment is the most important problem facing the world today? Why? World peace.

What career offers the greatest opportunity to young men and women? Aeronautical engineer.

FLOWERS

For the Living

WARREN DANIELSON, Julia Lathrop Junior High school student, who won the Americanization essay contest conducted in the two junior high schools of this city by the Auxiliary of the American Legion.

When a young lawyer with no cases and no clients, he heard of a man who had killed a policeman with a gun, and immediately went there to defend him.

During the argument of the case, Aranha pointed to a discrepancy between the confession of the defendant as given to the police and as given in court. He inferred that the police had used third degree methods.

Immediately the police chief leaped to his feet, pulled his gun, and declared he would tolerate no such insult to his men. Aranha drew his gun, laid it on the bar of justice, said that he proposed to say what he wanted to say and that the gun was his guarantee.

The judge reprimanded the police chief, but later the chief publicly boasted that he would kill Aranha.

Aranha knew he was up against it in any fight, but he did not propose to retire without protecting his honor. So after some deliberation he wrote a letter to the mayor which read:

"I have been informed of the threat which your chief of police has made to kill me. Therefore I want him to know that I shall leave the city tomorrow at 6 a. m. I shall take the road east to Alegre and I shall be accompanied only by my servant."

Aranha may be a political surgeon, but he is also a man of foresight. He foresaw the disagreeable complications bound to result from an assassination and would calm his police chief. Aranha was right. No one appeared on the road next morning.

KNOWS U. S. A.
In the Washington diplomatic corps most Latin-Americans are just a bit looked down upon by their European confreres. The new ambassador from Brazil, however, changed all that. Very soon the Europeans found that while they were invited to the surface fêl-dorol of Washington society, Aranha was welcomed into exclusive cabinet dinners.

He went with Jim Farley to see the Kentucky Derby at Louisville—and incidentally won $1,500. He visited both Republicans and Democrats at the national conventions last summer. He got acquainted with every stratum of American society, from John L. Lewis to Herbert Hoover.

Few foreign ambassadors have come to know the United States as Aranha knows it. He made this one of his first jobs, touring the country from coast to coast.

POLITICAL STUDENT
Aranha is too forthright to be a career diplomat. He cuts through red tape. He chafes at the petty pussyfooting of his colleagues.

When the Costa Rican minister wasted an hour of the Pan-American Union's time talking about a Chaco peace based upon philanthropy, Aranha cut him short with:

"You might as well apply philanthropy to automobile accidents in the United States or to syphilis in France. Both kill more people than war in the Chaco."

Aranha will have a tough time as president of Brazil, but if he understands Brazilian politics as well as he does American he should succeed. After attending both political conventions last summer, Aranha gave this definition of the difference between the Republicans and the Democrats:

"At Cleveland," he said, "the Republicans promised Santa Claus to both the rich and the poor, while at Philadelphia, the Democrats promised Santa Claus to the poor with the rich man's money."

HITLER AND GOD
To the Editor: That Germany will make war on some nation is now assured.

Saluting heaven, Hitler declares: "Vater can count on the acquiescence of Him who stands above us all!" 'Tis the resurrection of the late Kaiser's "Me und Gott," and, spiritually as well as mechanically speaking, the swastika is ready to wait somebody.

There's nothing anomalous about it. Often when one people has started out to eat up a neighbor, they have enlisted God as one of the reliable, supporting cannibals. Alexander claimed blood relationship with God. Napoleon had his star on high. William, now of Holland, adopted God as his adjutant. Pizzaro and Cortez held God with one hand and strangled the infidel with the other. Quite likely, Hitler will decorate God with his swastika.

And very rarely has God stood it. R. F. PAINE.

What Other Editors Say

TRAILING THE COUNTRY
(Riverside Enterprise)
Another menace threatening the United States constitution is the automobile trailer. Says the New York Times:

"Interstate commerce won't be a denance. The legal problem of a kosher chicken or a ton of coal crossing the state line is child's play compared with several dozen million American citizens in trailers crossing state lines from Minnesota to Florida and from Vermont to California."

The question is, where will they vote? Where will they pay their taxes? What government unit shall have authority over them as they "trail" from state to state, from county to county, from city to city?

Will national legislators be elected in Tin Can Tourist associations, and whom will they represent? These are matters the Founding Fathers never thought of, but as time goes on they will be vital questions upon which a conclusion must be reached by society.

HE'S GOING TO SAVE US
(Santa Paula Chronicle)

John A. Hall, who calls himself president of the National Americanism Foundation—"Fund" we almost said—proposes to organize patrols on every block in town to watch the neighbors and spy out "subversive activity."

We are afraid that Mr. Hall will have to start another world war first in order to bring back the particular species of craziness and malice that fosters that sort of thing.

Howdy, folks! The increasing popularity of auto trailers is due, we think, to the fact that flivver tourists are often forced to drive as far as 900 miles before they reach another relative's house.

One of the great advantages of living in a house trailer is that you don't have to work in your wife's rock garden.

Housewife—That was a very poor piece of beef you sold me yesterday; it was spoiled.

Butcher—I'm sorry, mum; I guess I gave you a bum steer.

A highbrow magazine is one which contains an article by someone everybody has heard of, about somebody nobody has ever heard of.

The ideal job, snickers Lil' Gee Gee, is one where you work from 12 to 1 o'clock, with an hour off for lunch, with two vacations a year, each one six months long.

All out for the 100-yard dash.

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

Out west, we used to say, where men are men. And I doubt that it's confined to men of the West. Probably men are men wherever they are.

This comes from a friend who mines gold in the primeval, craggy mountains of Idaho:

"One of the men (at an outlying camp) was pinned by a falling tree. Two of our boys made a rapid snowshoe trip over the 8500-foot summit to render aid on receipt of a telephone call."

"One of the two, former fire boss at the Carbonado (in Washington) and from long experience in the Colorado mines, had much capacity along the line of first aid."

"They found the poor fellow almost gone from loss of blood, with one leg so badly crushed that the only chance to prevent gangrene and give a chance to get the man out to a hospital was to take the leg off."

"There were no anaesthetics, but the man was game and said, 'Go ahead.'"

"Les Williams did the job with a razor and other local tools, bandaging up all the wounds and staunching the loss of blood. But the poor fellow was so far gone before our men got there that he did not survive the previous loss of blood and the shock."

"With your understanding heart, this unheeded and unsung episode, which to men like ours is all in the day's work, will be understood and appreciated. An episode which, if the man had been more highly placed or better known would be heralded to the world by all the press services."

There isn't much that a poor scribe like me can add to such a story.

I know the country; know the men. Maybe not the identical men involved in this saga of the mountain peaks, but men just like them, men who fight the hard rock ledges for the precious metals they contend, men who live hard lives and die hard deaths. Admirable, hard-fighting, big-hearted men from the high hills. Men of the West.

Skinny Skribbles

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

And they entered in and found not the body of Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, that behold, two men stood by them in shining garments.

And as they were afraid and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living with the dead?—Luke 24:1-5.

On Calvary almost 2000 years ago death was defeated in fulfillment of the prophetic record running all through the Book of Isaiah, because there is the beneficiary of that sacrifice. Tomorrow throughout Christendom acknowledgment and adoration will go to Him whose passion for souls led to the way of the cross.

How tenaciously mankind clings to that faith. It is the source of comfort to the distressed, it lightens the burdens of those who are heavy laden, and is the promise of hope to the discouraged. It is impartial in its benedictions, offering encouragement to every phase of human experience. Rich and poor, the wise and the foolish, find within its enclosure rest and security. It is a faith placed in an animation of life, here and hereafter, and not in forms or idols.

By all the rituals there is the overshadowing and overpowering presence of the sacrifice of Golgotha.

Men who pay slight attention to matters spiritual during the year, pause at Easter time to reverence the occurrences of Holy Week which culminated in the crucifixion. It is a sacred oasis for rest and food, where weary souls relax for meditation and convert into a confessional. Where our faults are revealed in confidence and we are rewarded openly for our repentance. It is the light breaking through the gloom and illuminating the empty tomb which held the Risen Lord. The symbol of hope, support for the weak, sustenance for the needy, promise for the future.

In connection with Easter let us consider the lily. It tells not, neither does it spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. It is the floral adornment which peculiarly typifies the Life from whence it came. It's as pure as a mountain stream, an unblemished beacon of safety on the highways of doubt.

The compelling force of Easter is so reverential it arouses a dormancy, and with magnetic power pulls us nearer the cross. It is the one outstanding refuge to which human life goes for help. It is the shelter of safety from the storms beating at the citadel of faith. It has beaten back the assaults of infidelity, and as dark and bleak as human brotherhood appears today still stands as offering the only solution of peaceful relations.

The rabble of almost two thousand years ago is again rumbling and murmuring its discontent. It was defeated then. It will be defeated again. Men of vision, students of industry, giants of science, theologians and men of affairs, point all in one direction to the solution of world as well as spiritual problems. You cannot crush an inherent faith that God moves in a mysterious way to accomplish His purpose. The statistical Babson does not attempt to prove it by mathematics, but he does accept it as a matter of faith, and recommends it in business.

Sweeping across the centuries the forces of evil and righteousness have contested for supremacy, one by way of the sword, the other by way of the cross. One for peace, the other for war. One leaving a field of desolation, the other a pastoral valley of contentment which passeth all understanding.

That elysium was not established until the seals of death were broken at the tomb. Then it was opened for settlement to human souls of every race and clime, and is still open to all who wish for a home in the promised land, flowing with good will on earth, and recommending for adaptation those ethics contained in the beatitudes.

Unworthy as we are we find on Easter day the pathway leading to the sanctuary where saints and sinners look across the vistas to Calvary and follow the multitudes who clamored for the blood of the Lamb of God, and with Mary on the first day of the week to the empty sepulchre. It is the impelling incident in all human emotion which inclines the head of a sinful world.

Of this, however, I am certain: Acquaintance with the scripture is a refining influence, a solace to your heart, an intellectual stimulation, and an anchor of faith found nowhere else in human literature. To me it is an inspired classic. It holds steadfast to our earthly experiences, and no other Book gives such comfort in this life and assurance of continuity of a life beyond.
